

GHOSTLY HAUNTINGS of the BRADLEY PLAYHOUSE

Wednesday, April 24, 2013

5:00 pm, Point Breeze Restaurant in Webster

“Sponsored by The Rotary Club of Webster-Dudley”

The Bradley Playhouse is a 112 year-old vaudeville theatre in the heart of the Putnam Antiques and Restaurant District in the "Quiet Corner" of Northeastern Connecticut. It is an amateur community theatre, operated by the members of The Theatre of Northeastern Connecticut, Inc.

The Bradley Playhouse has had numerous fires over the years, two of which were only 14 hours apart. But in later years, the theater may be more well known for Victoria, a ghost who patrons, stage hands and staff have all claimed to have seen. Back in 2005, the theatre told their story on Ghost Hunters on the SyFy network, although at the time the findings were inconclusive. But hauntings continue to this day...

The Rotary Club of Webster-Dudley meets weekly on Wednesdays from 5:00-6:15 pm at Point Breeze Restaurant in Webster. Meetings are free, open to the general public - and highly encouraged!
